

69%

of organizations said
IT infrastructure
complexity is slowing
down digital initiatives
and operations.

Complexity in IT has long been a fact of life, but, for many, it is getting worse. Complexity has real-world impacts for higher education organizations, limiting their ability to extract full value from new technologies such as AI or even introducing new risks as they look to adhere to new data security and privacy regulations. In response, IT leaders are looking to new infrastructure approaches that tackle complexity head-on.

This InstaGraphic was created by Omdia on behalf of

NUTANIX

LEARN MORE