

Best Value Chem Gains Agility with Nutanix

IT transformation removes bottlenecks and supports high-growth business

BUSINESS BENEFITS

To keep ahead of business growth, leading Indian flavour and fragrance ingredients manufacturer Best Value Chem Pvt Ltd opted for a hyperconverged architecture rather than adding further to its existing legacy infrastructure.

Our partner, Hitachi Systems Micro Clinic played an important role in realizing this project for Best Value Chem. The customer chose Nutanix Enterprise Cloud Platform with AHV hypervisor for its simplicity in management, solid reputation in performance as well as its “pay as you grow” scalability.

“We are always keen on implementing new technology to make our operations more efficient and more customer-centric. By investing in Nutanix HCI, we have reaffirmed our vision of being a more technically competitive company in the flavour and fragrance ingredients industry.”

According to IT Head Keyur Thakkar, the transition was “flawless, smooth and fast” and his team was up and running on Nutanix within seven days. “This rapid implementation has allowed our business to leverage and realize the full potential from the very beginning,” said Thakkar.

Looking forward, the Best Value Chem team plans to take advantage of Nutanix’s vendor agnosticism to introduce a growing range of apps and, in particular, to integrate IoT technologies for increased production efficiency.

“Nutanix Enterprise Cloud and AHV have empowered us to scale almost instantly to support our fast-growing business. We see immediate improvement in our application performance and IT efficiency in terms of provisioning, patching and upgrade of IT resources.”

- Keyur Thakkar, IT Head, Best Value Chem Pvt Ltd
